34 - In your opinion, what are the three best features of this course?

Response Rate	15/18 (83.33%)

• lots of information about information science and the history and evolution of AI and information science in general which is very important base for anyone not coming from an IT background or very technical background

• The best features of this course were the classroom environment and Professor Calado's teaching style, and the structure of the course. This class was very welcoming, both from the other students and Professor Calado. I was able to learn a lot from the group discussions with others in this class, and Professor Calado provided good resources and feedback that helped a lot. I definitely feel that my research and my writing skills have improved, especially in writing research papers and in analyzing academic texts.

• 1. Well structured syllabus. 2. Knowledgable and approachable professor. 3. Classes were never boring.

• 1. I liked how the instructor laid the course out with the first half being full reading and discussion and the second half being sole dedication to the final paper. 2. I liked how the course made it a seminar-focused class. I thought this was good for an introductory course. 3. I liked how specifically Professor Calado made us do ice breakers for each class in order to get to know each other. I felt this made the class more conducive to having discussions.

• I really liked how interactive this class was, every week was a discussion that the whole class would get involved in. Out of all my classes, I looked forward to this one the most because it felt super interesting and communicative. I loved how involved everyone was in the class. The workload wasn't much, we could enjoy the class without feeling stressed about it.

• Professor Calado, welcoming environment that's good for discussions, great reading assignments

• 1. Practice writing skills 2. Ice breaking! 3. reading materials

• Professor was great Content was relevant and interesting Opportunity to work on a topic of personal interest

• The class discussions, professor Calado, the wide range of topic we had a chance to cover.

• 1. Professor Calado's expertise, thorough preparation and organization. 2. Professor Calado's flexibility to increase the difficulty of the final paper changed it to a research paper, which was more suitable for the level of our class even though it required a lot more time and effort. This was no small decision on the professor's part, because of all the extra time and effort it would require to guide all 18 students through the process and to grade our drafts and final papers. 3. Opportunity to meet classmates from other departments and a chance to be exposed to a variety of research topics. I feel very lucky to have chosen this particular section and appreciate all my classmates!

• - the readings - the professor - the conversations

• 1. The organizational skills of Prof. Calado were exceptional 2. The peer review from my classmates was helpful and stimulated more self-reflection regarding my paper 3. I now have a wonderful community and professor whom I hope to stay in contact with!

• - All of the readings we did throughout the semester were super interesting! - I liked the format of the class and discussing the readings in depth, it felt like I wasn't just reading the readings to read them, but to think critically about them. - Professor Calado is the best! She made this course so fun and I would absolutely recommend her to any student taking 601, I feel like I very much lucked out!

• - instructor - seminar style - class time to work on essays

• (1) Professor Calado (along with my peers) made this class incredibly engaging by sheer knowledge and personality alone (2) The discussion setting allowed for excellent conversation relating to the course material/homework, and it also allowed for us students to create a social environment that made us excited to be at Pratt and to learn (3) Prof. Calado is really flexible with the research project which allows for one's final work to grow and fluctuate naturally as more research is completed

35 - In your opinion, what three changes would most improve this course?

Response Rate	15/18 (83.33%)

• More practical work and discussion linking the philosophical topics

• I don't think I would change anything about this course!

• 1. Course contents more curated to the degree in progress. 2. Other interesting activities/assignments outside of readings and discussions. 3. More guidance on HOW to write a research paper for people from different backgrounds.

• 1. There were weeks where I felt there were a lot of readings, however, it was nice that they were actually discussed. 2. Having more time for understanding the final paper project (discussing more before the last reading week). 3. N/A

• I liked how the course was as is. I wouldn't recommend any changes to it.

• Maybe more time to marinate on the research paper idea? Otherwise, not really anything else.

• No notes. 10/10

• N/A

• 1. Some of my classmates were a bit chatty during quiet time when we were asked to work on our drafts while the professor conducted one-to-one meetings with each student on our paper. Although upon realizing this, the professor stepped in and the situation got better in the second half of the meetings. 2. The submission links could have been open a bit sooner on a few occasions. Although it was not a bit deal and didn't affect our timely submissions at all. 3. We are the first year that the professor changed the final paper to a more challenging research paper, so I am not sure if it will continue for future classes. If so, it would be nice to know sooner that our research topics need not be limited to those related to our readings, bur rather, it should be an overarching theme or a topic related to our graduation portfolio. Many of us changed our topics upon learning this, and lost a little bit of time on doing research all over again for our new topics.

• Nothing

• I have no suggestions for improvement.

• - I think the final paper assignment could start earlier in the semester to give students more time with their paper and digesting sources.

• - n/a

• The smallest little thing: just one more critiquing of the final paper's draft from Prof. Calado would have been SO fantastic, but there was such a time crunch it was impossible to fit in another review in. Other than that, this class was awesome!!!

• Filipa is very approachable and accessible. She is very easy to talk to and ask questions to so far in this course atleast.

• Professor Calado was super fun to have class with. She designed her classes to make sure everyone was actively involved, made it fun to interact and speak out in class. Even our final paper submission is very clearly outlined, with multiple check-ins and feedback sessions.

• I am so happy and glad I had Professor Calado to teach the foundations class. She made the environment of the classroom so welcoming and safe, which I think encouraged a lot of people to be able to speak up. She would work really hard to be inclusive, ask questions to make us consider other POVs and also took feedback from us to adjust assignments or due dates based on our needs. Professor Calado will always offer to listen and help if she can, which helped a lot during the writing process of our papers. I appreciated the discussions and readings, they were really insightful and interesting! She's awesome, I hope I can take another class with her somehow!

• Prof. Calado is very organized and very well prepared. She has a lot of expertise and knowledge to share with students and also a lot of patience to work with students with different interests and personalities. Furthermore, while most professors would stick with a well-developed and time-proven syllabus rather than tailoring assignments to match the level of any particular class, Prof. Calado chose the harder way of changing the final paper to a more difficult research paper. This inevitably lead to additional preparation, guidance, and grading work on Prof. Calado's part, and yet she never once mentioned any of it. I was very excited about the new challenge and had a more fulfilling learning experience as a result, but what I most appreciate and admire is the true educator in Prof. Calado's heart and how she succeeded with our class. While multiple professors teach multiple sections of this required course every year, students take it only once, and what we take away from this course is experience and memory that are unique to us. A successful class means much more to students in the sense that we don't have any opportunity to improve it next time around or with a different group of students. Prof. Calado and my classmates started my Pratt experience on such a high note. With a top-quality educator, an interesting and motivated group of classmates, and a class dynamic that both encouraged and respected constructive feedback and diverse viewpoints, I cannot give this course a higher rating and would recommend it to every new student!

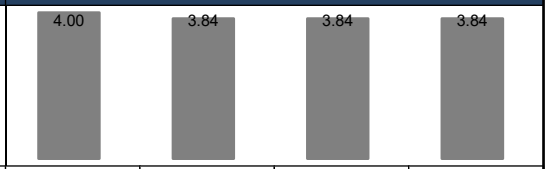

• Professor Calado is remarkable. Aside from being incredibly earnest and funny, she is an amazing professor who is truly passionate about teaching and learning from her students. From the very get-go, Professor Calado has been quick to learn more about each of us and our individual interests—her priorities included giving us space to feel challenged in ways that were productive and stimulating. If you have a chance to take a course with her, please do! You truly won't regret it.

• Calado is such a great professor!! Pratt is lucky to have her!!

37 - This course supports diversity, equity and inclusion.
